UPHOLDS LAW IN TEST CASE

Illinois Supreme Court Decides Local Option Law is Constitutional

MUST RETURN LICENSE FEES

Certain Elections Under Measure May be Nullified, Say the Judges, But Legislation Itself Can't be Assailed

The Supreme court Wednesday of last week decided the John McBride appeal case, holding that the local option law which was passed by the legislature last year is constitutional in every respect.

The court was unanimous in its decision. Every point on which the law was attacked was gone into by the court. Every section of the law was pronounced valid by the court.

The Supreme court holds that the law's title is not defective; that the law does not confiscate property, because the saloon-keeper invests in furniture and fixtures knowing that he is liable to have his license revoked at any time under the old law. It holds also that the new law does not create any new offenses.

The court also decides that the United States stamp is prima facie evidence that a man is engaged in the sale of liquor; that in case of elections without notice, for which the law provides, such elections, if held, would be invalid, but that this does not invalidate the act itself.

The legislature may create districts like a county or township, and if the voters in the district decide that intoxicating liquors shall not be sold in the district, then a village or city in this district created can not permit the sale of liquor, says the decision. The sale of liquor for medicinal purposes by druggists is never regarded as the saloon business, adds the court.

The Supreme court holds that when a man gets a saloon license and can not use it, the municipality issuing the license is morally bound, through not before the passage of the law, legally bound, to pay it back to him.

One of the principal questions was that the law permitted the legislature to adopt the

CARFARE

The decision of the Supreme court of this state has held that to be legal. The decision fell hard upon the representatives of the United Societies, who are here demanding that state democrats favor the repeal of the law. The Antislavery league jubilantly declares that the decision means country option at the next legislature.

The court decided that a township may control the liquor business in all its borders.

The decision is based on the case of People vs. McBride, a saloonkeeper of Randolph county, who openly ran his saloon in violation of the law to test the statute, and was fined by a justice. The case was appealed to the Supreme court, where the law was attacked by lawyers representing the breweries and distilleries and supported by attorneys for the Antislavery league.

The right to create anti-saloon territory is unquestioned, says the court, and can not be qualified or restricted in any sense. The right of a municipal city to vote itself "wet" after its township has voted "dry" was not brought into the case. The rights of drug stores under this law and the possession of an excise stamp being considered prima facie evidence of sale are two other important questions not raised. The main questions was whether the legislature has the right to create anti-saloon territory.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

TIES UP WAUKEGAN

Following the killing of two men and the injury of three others by the bursting of a flywheel in the plant of the Waukegan Electric company, the town was crippled Thursday. Business was at a standstill, and several factories and other places closed down because of the absence of electric power.

Hundreds of men and women found themselves without employment when they reported for work. The electric light service had been ruined.

The accident was one of the most serious that has occurred in the north shore city. Huge parts of the big flywheel weighing several tons crashed through the brick walls of the powerhouse, sailed nearly two blocks at terrific speed, spreading death and injury on the way.

The dead are, J. H. Jensen, manager telephone exchange at Waukegan, hit by a piece of the wheel, died at the hospital. Joseph Paddock, private policeman, standing a block from the plant, struck by a huge part of flywheel, killed instantly.

FORMER LAKE COUNTY WOMAN KILLED

The wife of J. F. Fisher, formerly agent at Prairie View and Lake Villa was instantly killed at Waupaca, Wis., last Friday. She was visiting her mother and while out driving their horse became frightened at a street car and both were thrown to the street. Mrs. Fisher was thrown in front of the approaching car which crushed her before it could be stopped. Mr. Fisher is at present located at Ashland, Wis. and has many friends in Lake County.

Stonebraker, one of the earliest pioneer settlers of Kenosha county and a resident of the town of Bristol for nearly sixty years, died at the Stonebraker homestead in that town on Tuesday as a result of a natural breaking down due to advanced age. The deceased was 78 years of age. He was prominent in the affairs of the town of Bristol and the county for more than forty years. Mr. Stonebraker was born in Otego county, N. Y., Oct. 14, 1829. He came west in 1851 and had since resided in Bristol. During his long residence in the town he had taken an active interest in its affairs and had held many town offices, serving as town treasurer and school director for many years. He is survived by five children, three daughters and two sons.

His funeral was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. J. Stonebraker, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NATAL DAY OF GREAT ORDER

Sunday Last the Anniversary of the Founding of Odd Fellowship in America

EIGHTY-NINE YEARS OF AGE

Noble Fraternal Society Order Whose Branches Now Extend Over Entire World

Sunday was the eighty-ninth anniversary of the beginning of Odd Fellowship in America, but the Antioch lodge did not have any special observation of the occasion. In eleven years less than a century the American fraternal order has grown to hundreds of thousands of members. It has grand lodges in every state and territory of the union and has flowed over the boundaries to the countries of the old world and to the islands of the Pacific ocean. It has founded homes for the indigent members of the order and for the widows and orphans of deceased members. It has disbursed immense sums in charity and is one of the most fraternal orders of the country. In age it stands next to the Masonic order and in good works it is at least a close second.

The first Odd Fellows lodge in America was organized April 26, 1819, in the city of Baltimore, by Thomas Wilkey and four other Englishmen who had just come to America from their native country, when they were members of what was called the Manchester Unity, an organization in which the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was founded. It was intended at first as merely a social organization of local character, but the idea appealed to others, and it was not long before the lodge had largely increased in membership and other lodges were founded.

It was not long before the new order spread to neighboring states and in a comparatively short time it had grown to such an extent that a grand lodge and a supreme lodge were established to direct the order and weld it into an instrument of great good to humanity. Thomas Wilkey, founder of the order, was made the recognized from the first as the head of the sovereign supreme lodge and held that exalted position for many years.

The lodge proper confers five degrees upon members. A higher branch of the order is encampment to which all members of subordinate lodges who have attained the fifth or scarlet degree are eligible. The encampment has three degrees and has in each jurisdiction a grand encampment, corresponding to the grand lodge.

There is also a uniformed branch known as the Patriarchs Militant, whose diversions are styled cantons, and to which all encampment members of the highest, or royal purple, degree are eligible.

The Odd Fellows also has a degree of Rebekah to which wives, widows, sisters and daughters of Odd Fellows are eligible and also all Odd Fellows themselves. This was the first fraternal order in America to extend the benefits of membership to women and the degree of Rebekah is surprisingly strong, having also its higher lodges and legislating for itself within certain lines.

EXPRESS CLERK

OVERCOME BY GAS

Otto Yahn, employed with the American Express Company, was Friday night overcome by illuminating gas, because of an alleged leak in the pipes in the building on North Genesee street, Waukegan, part of which the express company occupies.

His condition was discovered Saturday morning when Expressman Thomas Webb opened the back door of the office and found Yahn overcome.

He summoned Dr. Daniels and Yahn was soon brought out of a state of coma.

He is now recovered but was obliged to take a walk this afternoon to get fresh air.

MANIAC COMMITTS SUICIDE

Hans Anderson of Winthrop Harbor Cuts Throat With Razor

WAS DEED OF A MANIAC

Anderson Had Twice Been Committed to and Discharged From Asylums

With an open razor in his hand Wednesday morning Hans Anderson of Whitney street, Winthrop Harbor, Ill., drove his wife and children into the woods and then returning into his house cut his throat from ear to ear.

His body weltering in its own blood was found in the farm house by neighbors to whom the wife and children appealed for aid and at three Wednesday afternoon Deputy Coroner Conrad held the inquest.

The fortunate thing about it is that Anderson did not attempt to kill his family, as his deed was that of a maniac.

Forty-eight years old, he resided on the state line on one of the Schneider places until two or three years ago when he went to Kenosha.

Just after he had built a house there he went insane and was twice committed to and discharged from asylums, finally returning to Winthrop Harbor, where he has made his home for three weeks.

He committed suicide at 10 Wednesday morning. There are surviving him the widow and three children.

GRAHAM

DEFATS YOUNG

John R. Graham of Long Lake, Lake county, defeated Jesse Young in a special match race of 200 targets at the Chicago Gun club grounds Sunday, both men making unusually good scores in a strong wind and a driving rain. Graham broke 195 out of a possible 200, and Young shattered 185.

Three other men joined the race, in order to complete a full squad of five, but they did not figure as regular contestants. Of these Le Barkley, the professional, broke 189, W. H. Whitcomb broke 182 and A. A. Weinsberg smashed 177.

Graham's showing was not only remarkable on account of the weather conditions, but also for the runs he made. In the first 100 targets he broke 98 and on the second round he broke 97. Although it was raining so heavily at one stage that the targets were scarcely visible, he made a straight run of 77, breaking his first three lots of 25 in clean fashion. He lost the third target following on account of the wind.

We would not wish to tarnish a man of character or ruin his fortune by dishonoring him in the world; to stain the principles of a woman's conduct by entering into the essential points of it; that would be too infamous and mean; but upon a thousand faults which lead our judgment to believe them capable of all the rest; to inspire the mind of those who listen to us with a thousand suspicions which point out what we dare not say; to make satirical remarks which discover a mystery, where no person before had perceived the least intention of concealment; by poisonous interpretations, to give an air of ridicule to matters which had hitherto escaped observation; to let everything, on certain points, be clearly understood, while protesting that they are incapable themselves of cunning or deceit, is what the world makes little scruple of.—Jean Baptiste Massillon.

POLICEMAN'S SON RUN OVER

Raymond Trieger Fatally Injured by a Brewery Wagon

Raymond Trieger, three years old, son of Mounted Policeman Gustave Trieger of Chicago, was run over by a Birk Bros. brewery wagon Saturday and fatally injured in North Lincoln street between Ainslie and Lawrence avenues.

The accident occurred at about six o'clock and the little fellow was at once hurried to a hospital where he passed away about nine o'clock. The child was playing close to the edge of the sidewalk, but just how the accident happened we are unable to learn.

The driver, Martin Ludwig, was arrested later and held pending the result of the boy's injuries.

The remains were brought to Antioch on the 10:35 train Tuesday morning and a short funeral service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Trieger at Grass Lake, a minister from Chicago officiating. The remains were interred in the Grass Lake cemetery.

WM. YOUNG

SUCCUMBS TO PNEUMONIA

Word was received here on Friday morning of last week, of the death of Wm. Young, which occurred at the Jane McAllister hospital on Thursday evening at about 6:30 o'clock.

His death was due to a severe attack of pneumonia, from which he had been suffering for about two weeks. From the first it was evident that his case was a very serious one and it was deemed advisable to convey him to Waukegan where he was placed in the hospital.

The latter part of the past week, however he appeared to be much improved but toward evening Thursday he suddenly turned for the worse and even before the change could be realized, with a sigh he sank back dead, expiring in the presence of the hospital superintendent and two nurses.

Mr. Young was born September 11, 1854 at Rochester, New York. In the year of 1885 he came with his parents to Illinois, and settled near Russell. On the third day of April 1888 he moved onto his farm east of town and that place was his home the remainder of his life.

The funeral was held at the Millburn church on Sunday, many relatives and friends from here attending. The remains were laid at rest beside his father and mother in the Millburn cemetery.

DEATH REAPS RICHES

Waukegan Man Dies Trying to Tell Wife Where Savings Had Been Hidden

SAYS ONE WORD THEN FAILS

Most Interesting Condition Develops in Death of Man Who Kept Private Affairs Away From Family

Although he had a considerable amount of money hidden away in boxes, etc., although he held considerable stock in a coffee plantation; although he tried as hard as possible to tell his relatives about his financial investments when the death call was imminent, P. S. Williams of 1104 W. Washington street, Waukegan, died Wednesday morning without having been able to reveal to his wife and three children where his money and stocks are and therefore they are perhaps left almost penniless.

For days Williams had been trying to tell his family where his money and investments were, but because of his condition he was unable to impart the information to them.

A clairvoyant was called to the house from Winnetka and everything possible was done to get the man's mind into such a state that he could tell where the effects are.

But it was of no avail—he died without being able to tell what he so hard tried to tell.

It was the most remarkable case of the kind that has ever occurred in Waukegan, perhaps there never before has been a case of the kind in this section.

Having kept his own counsel for years during his business transactions, Williams paid the penalty of being called away without being able to give his family that which he had worked all his life to acquire—a comfortable sum of money. He always kept things to himself and as the result, when he got into a condition where it was seen the end was not far off, his relatives began to wonder how they would get knowledge of his affairs in case he should die.

That Williams realized it himself is shown by the determined and even pitiful effort which he made to tell his wife where he had hidden his money and in what plantation company he had invested in stocks.

He would say a word now and then and it caused his relatives to eagerly watch him for further information, but after getting one or two words out of his month, his mind seemed unable to carry on the thoughts he was trying to give out and thus things went on for days.

Day and night his relatives watched him as they saw his life ebbing away, it being realized that unless he gave the information soon, he must die and the family would be ignorant of where his money and stocks were.

Hoping against hope, the family resorted to all kinds of means, to induce him to tell, he was encouraged in every possible manner, but was unable to impart the words which, according to appearances, he was trying to give to his family.

He was unable to write them either, not because he could not write, but because he seemed unable to concentrate his mind long enough on what he was trying to do.

Like when he tried to talk, he would write a word and it looked as if he were going to get it in black and white, but after getting a couple of words down blankness would again cross his face and he would sink back helpless and his mind gone for a time.

Paralysis is said to be the cause of the man's trouble, although heart failure began troubling him about a year ago. His last sickness lasted about a month and during that time his death was expected at any time.

Williams was 55 years, and had been employed as foreman of erecting iron gates on the North western between Chicago and Milwaukee.

Being a saving man, he had acquired considerable money during his life time, but the unfortunate part of it was that he never told his wife anything about what he did with it. He invested it as fast as he acquired it, and when he did not find a ready investment, he is believed to have hidden it somewhere, where his wife does not know. One large investment which he made was in a coffee plantation, an investment which had been bringing him in a considerable revenue, but his wife knows nothing of it except that it pays well.

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American touring Corsica, rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerrard Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the Paoli, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves. Enid Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant, the four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer Constantine. The vendetta pursues and as the quartet are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes gets part of the mysterious note and receives letters which inform him that he is marked by the vendetta. He employs an American detective and plans to beat the vendetta at their own game. For the purpose of securing the safety of the women Barnes arranges that Lady Charlotte leave a secluded villa at Nice to which the party is to be taken in a yacht. Barnes and Enid make arrangements for their marriage. The net tightens about Barnes. He receives a note from La Belle Blackwood, the American adventuress. Barnes discovers that Enid has been kidnapped and taken to the villa and rushes back to hear that Anstruther's wife, Marina, is also missing. Barnes is compelled to depart for Corsica without delay, and the kidnapping is for the purpose of entrapping Barnes, so the vendetta may kill him. Barnes and Marina's boat is overtaken by the search for Enid. They come in sight of her and her captors in the Corsican mountain wilds just as night approaches. In seeking shelter from a storm the couple enter a hermitage and there to their amazement they discover Tomasso, the foster father of Enid, who was supposed to have been killed by De Belloc's soldiers, and for whose death Barnes had been vendettized. Tomasso learns that Marina's husband did not kill her brother.

Here, as they warm themselves before the fire, Tomasso remarks: "I have little to offer you, dear mistress, but some dried sheep's flesh."

"Fish! hunger is nothing. You are alive, dear old Tomasso," repeats the girl as he again mumbles her hand. Still the young lady's eyes seem happier when Barnes, opening his haversack, throws out cans of preserved meats, potted chicken and tinned biscuits; also tea and coffee and tin cups and plates. These being followed by a box of cigars, the American emits a snort of joy, and remarks: "Little Leboot is a genius."

Immediately all together they go to work to make a mountain supper. Soon after, as they eat, Barnes remarks: "This is a mighty curious coincidence. Do you know, old Tomasso, that Sallcetti, the young politician here, the one who is to marry your daughter, Etheria, has sworn a vendetta against me for putting the troops on your track and getting you shot to death?"

"A vendetta against you? Well, it was his duty, seeing he is to marry your daughter, had your soldiers killed me," returns the old Corsican, in his simple way.

A moment after, however, he chuckles to himself: "Per Dio, that was what Rochini and Romano wanted me to do to-day—I was to kill you."

"Those awful monsters," shudders Marina.

"What makes you think that, Mondaldi?" asks Barnes, surprise upon his face.

"Well, this Rochini, and his mate, have been run out of Rotondo, the farmers there having got tired of their sheep disappearing too rapidly, and have come over to this mountain. To-day these two approached me, some four hours ago and said: 'Brother bandit out of a job, join us. A messenger has been sent ahead and we are going down to help Sallcetti make votes for himself by killing the Americans down in the vale toward Guagno.'"

"Hum! then you did not accept," remarks Barnes, lighting his cigar.

"I am not quite bandit enough to shoot a man I have never heard of before," answers old Mondaldi proudly, "so I said: 'No.' 'Ah, but he will have gold with him,' cried Rochini. 'Foreigners always have gold,' said Romano, and the two went on their way. They are down the valley now."

"That is not all of it," says Barnes earnestly. "Your loved mistress—her life is in danger, too."

"Not by those or any other men while I, Tomasso, am alive," answers the old man savagely.

"No, but by Cipriano Danella, Musso's brother, and the scar-eyed young man, Musso's nephew."

"Oh, yes; I know them both. They—they threaten her?" The old Corsican gazes with love and reverence upon the being he adores. "Threaten her—these people?" he exclaims vindictively.

"Yes, because your stiletto killed Musso, they say she plotted with you for his murder, so as to save her husband," remarks Barnes, puffing his cigar.

"What, when she shrieked to me not to strike through the curtain. Ah, but I have something to say to Musso's relatives. And my friend, Sallcetti, whom I once voted for, who is to marry my Etheria—if he is to marry them, I will have a word with Sallcetti, and should he not prove pliable Etheria must get another for husband. Girls should not marry corpses, and Sallcetti will be dead." As if the matter is ended, old Mondaldi fills a battered cherrywood pipe with the strong, bitter, native tobacco of the island, lights it and goes to puffing contentedly.

"Neither of the Danellas is in Corsica," remarks Barnes. "The danger will come to your mistress when she returns to her husband on the French mainland. But Sallcetti has abducted my wife and brought her here—so that I, following him, shall come to my death in Bocognano."

"Pah, nothing will come to your wife to-night," says old Mondaldi. "Girls picking wild strawberries were talking that the day after to-morrow the people vote. They have a meeting this evening in Bocognano. I listened from behind a rock and heard them."

But Barnes is not so easy about his captured bride; he steps out of the cabin and finds the wind has died away, the mist has cleared with the rapidity usual to mountain storms.

He steps in and says anxiously to Marina: "The evening is very clear."

Certainly I Am Refreshed, Another Cup of Tea and I Will Go with You.

You know my anguish—do you think you have strength to venture down the heights, assisted by Tomasso and me, and enter your own village?"

"Certainly, I am refreshed. Another cup of tea and I will go with you," cries the girl so eagerly that Barnes puts grateful eyes upon her, for he knows it is her spirit more than her strength that produces her assent to further journey.

They are making hurried preparations to leave the cabin. Barnes is bending over the fire, brewing Marina's tea—their guns, and even the American's revolvers are lying in their belt on the pile of boughs near the entrance. Tomasso is saying: "Will I not astonish the men who swore a vendetta against you for my death! I who am alive and—and—" when suddenly Tomasso stops. There is a rattle in his throat that causes Barnes to look hurriedly up. Marina has retreated to the corner of the cabin and Mondaldi's eyes are full of horror.

Just across the fire from him stand two dark mountaineers. Rough, undressed sheepskins cover their brawny shoulders; long guns are in their hands and stilettoes in their belts. One is a big, powerful looking ruffian; the other slighter, but his brown limbs lithe and sinewy. The eyes of both are shining malevolently in the blaze.

"Corp di diavolo, this is a rare catch you have made, hermit bandit, whose name we do not know," chuckles the bigger of the two men; "this American whose pockets Sallcetti declared were lined with gold, he whom we waited for and missed in the vale below."

"Ah, you are Rochini and Romano, I believe from your speech, gentlemen," says Barnes quietly.

"Aye, that we are. And who is this woman of the beautiful eyes? Hand thy captives over to us, hermit bandit. Divide your spoils with us and we will save you the trouble of cutting the man's throat," jeers the slighter miscreant.

"As for the woman, the fire tells me she is very lovely both as to limbs and face, and I have a better use for her," guffaws the bigger man.

And never was Marina more beautiful. She confronts the ruffians with undaunted men, and says commanding: "Follows, dare to lay your hands on me and the whole of Bocognano will hunt you down. The Bellacoscia will destroy you. I am Marina Paoli."

"Oh, she is merry with us, this girl who runs after foreign gentlemen. Now we will show her that Corsican kisses are as good as those of this Americano."

Brutally they draw near to her. As the girl draws back from the contaminating clasp of the monsters, Tomasso, with a savage cry, and uplifted stiletto, stands between.

In a second the old man will be dead under their knives and the brave girl their prey. Marina's undaunted eyes, turning in appeal to the American, see with astonishment that he makes no move to aid her, but is absently squirming toward the cabin door. Suddenly she utters a gasp of despair and a sigh of contempt; this great pistol shot is running timidly away, flying out of the cabin, though as he passes the pile of boughs he seizes the belt holding his two revolvers.

"He has the gold! After him!" cries Rochini.

"We'll knife him in a minute!" yells Romano, and the two, cocking their guns, fly after the dastard American. But as they reach the door, the moment their athletic forms are outlined by the blaze of the fire, two quick, sharp pistol reports come from the outside, and Rochini and Romano, without even a cry, fall to the earth, inert and dead.

The smoke of Barnes' revolvers issues from them as he quietly re-enters and says apologetically: "I knew I wouldn't have time to grab my guns and shoot before they'd knife me, so I imitated the trick of Jerry, the Denver barkeeper, and ran away till I could get my weapons ready."

A moment later he says: "Come!" and taking Marina carefully in his arms, whispers: "Turn your face from them," and steps over the dead men lying in the entrance of the cabin.

Behind him, Tomasso, following, carrying the American's rifle, is saying: "Oh, you will be worshiped in this commune for this. So many poor men have been butchered, so many poor women have been carried away to the mountains by these dead devils."

But the reports have drawn others to the spot. As Barnes steps over the dead men lying in the entrance of the cabin, he suddenly says: "By heaven, here are more of them!" puts Marina down and would draw his revolvers were he not seized by three athletic young fellows who rise silently from the shadows about them.

A clear, commanding voice remarks: "No more of Rochini and his fellows. You have saved us the trouble of their killing. We are the Bellacoscia. Your pistols, stranger, have relieved us of the execution of these ruffians we were pursuing, who have brought discredit on the honored name of bandit."

And Tomasso is crying, "Antonio Bonelli," to a man of noble bearing, who, carbine in hand, comes into the cabin followed by eight stalwart young men, all armed as he is.

But the young men fear the supernatural and stand back, their eyes gleaming, and one shudders: "'Tis the ghost of old Mondaldi, killed by De Belloc's troops two weeks ago." For a moment they would retreat, but their leader laughs at them: "'Tis flesh and blood that is kissing my hand."

And old Tomasso says: "You know how well the troops shoot. Do you think they'd hit a man at 200 yards hiding behind a rock in the gloom of the morning?"

But the flashing-eyed man orders: "Stand back, while I question this stranger who has done Bocognano a service to-night."

Marina has risen, murmuring: "Antonio Bonelli!"

"Gran Dio! Mademoiselle Paoli," says the man, and gallantly sinks upon his knee and kisses devotedly the fair hand the girl extends to him. After a moment he continues most emphatically: "It was with sorrow that Corsica heard that you had forgotten the oath of the vendetta in the arms of the English officer who killed your brother."

CHANGE IN SCHOOL METHODS.

Consolidated Temples of Learning is Now the Order.

"The old country schoolhouse of not so long ago will soon be a relic of the past," said James Tighe of Altoona, Pa., according to the Washington Post. "Although one traveling through the country sees many of these old fashioned structures, he does not realize that they are rapidly being deserted and that a consolidated schoolhouse will be met with farther up the road. These new buildings are graded, and many have several high school courses, so that one teacher now teaches only one class, whereas in the old days the pedagogue taught everything from the alphabet to Latin. Of course, the consolidated schoolhouse is not so convenient to all the children, as they have to go a greater distance, but all of them ride to school nowadays. The consolidated school is much cheaper to the community, and what the farmer saves in taxes he puts in sleighs and wagons, so that his children may ride. Pupils can also remain at their home school much longer than they formerly could, and this also is a great saving. We may expect great results from this change, for the farmers with their poor schools have turned out some wonderful men, and they should do even better under the new conditions."

Quinine in Sunflower.

An eminent Spanish scientist has made the recent discovery that the sunflower yields a splendid febrifuge that can be used as a substitute for quinine. More than ten years ago Moncorvo reported to the Therapeutical Society of Paris with relation to the same subject. Accordingly the sunflower should not only by its growing exert great fever-dispelling effect, but also yield a product which is used advantageously in all fevers.

WOMEN'S KIDNEYS.

Are the Source of Most of Women's Sicknesses.

Mrs. Rebecca Mock, 1795 E. Rich Street, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I believe I would still be a victim of kidney troubles but for Doan's Kidney Pills, for when I started using them I was in constant pain with my back, and no other remedy had been of any use. The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was nervous and lacked energy. But Doan's Kidney Pills gave me prompt relief and continued use cured me."

ON THE GLAD HIGHWAY.

"Say, boss, you hasn't er dime in yer clothes, has yer?"

"No, my man, I have not. But how do you guess it?"

How I Cured Sweeney and Flatula. "I want to tell you how I saved one of our horses that had a fistula. We had the horse doctor out and he said it was so bad that he did not think he could cure it, and did not come again. Then we tried Sloan's Liniment and it cured it up nicely."

"One day last spring I was plowing for a neighbor who had a horse with sweeney, and I told him about Sloan's Liniment and he had me get a bottle for him, and it cured his horse all right, and he goes off now like a colt."

"We had a horse that had sweeney awfully bad and we thought it was never going to be any good, but we used Sloan's Liniment and it cured it up nicely. I told another neighbor about it and he said it was the best Liniment he ever used."

"We are using Sloan's Sure Colic Cure and we think it is all right."

The Mean Man Again.

"Come on, son," said the old farmer, after the daybreak breakfast, "and we'll get out in the fields and start plowing."

"But I can't plow to-day," protested the youngster, "I have chills. Why, dad, I am shaking all over."

The old farmer grinned and took a fresh chew.

"All the better, my son. If you can't plow you can scatter the seed. All you have to do is to hold them in your hand and every time you shake it will send them in all directions. Better than a patent seeder, begosh."

Willings to Oblige.

The poor but nifty young man was after the hand of the heiress.

"Young man," roared her irate father, "never darken my door again."

"All right, sir," replied the suitor, blandly, "I'll come around to-morrow and give it a coat of bright red paint. That will be much better than darkening it."

And the next instant the poor but nifty young man was being chased by a Scotch coachman, a French chauffeur and an English bulldog.

Money to Burn.

The big touring car had just whizzed by with a roar like a gigantic rocket, and Pat and Mike turned to watch it disappear in a cloud of dust.

"Thim chug wagons must cost a hape av cash," said Mike. "The rich is fairly burnin' money."

"An', be the smell av it," sniffed Pat, "it must be that tainted money we do be hearin' so much about."

BUILT RIGHT.

Brain and Nerves Restored by Grape-Nuts Food.

The number of persons whose ailments were such that no other food could be retained at all, is large and reports are on the increase.

"For 12 years I suffered from dyspepsia, finding no food that did not distress me," writes a Wis. lady. "I was reduced from 145 to 90 lbs., gradually growing weaker until I could leave my bed only a short while at a time, and became unable to speak aloud."

"Three years ago I was attracted by an article on Grape-Nuts and decided to try it."

"My stomach was so weak I could not take cream, but I used Grape-Nuts with milk and lime water. It helped me from the first, building up my system in a manner most astonishing to the friends who had thought my recovery impossible."

"Soon I was able to take Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast, and lunch at night, with an egg and Grape-Nuts for dinner."

"I am now able to eat fruit, meat and nearly all vegetables for dinner, but fondly continue Grape-Nuts for breakfast and supper."

"At the time of beginning Grape-Nuts I could scarcely speak a sentence without changing words around or 'talking crooked' in some way, but my brain and nerves have become so strengthened that I no longer have that trouble." "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

THE GREAT MAN'S OCCUPATION.

Nothing Very Serious in His Mind Just at That Moment.

The multi-millionaire was being shaved. As he lay back in his chair, looking upward, his grave face gave the impression that he was in deep study.

"Ah," whispered one of the barber shop loiterers, "I'll wager a dollar against a toothpick that he is thinking of railroad mergers."

"No," said another, "he is thinking about bear raids in Wall street."

"But he is pondering over the rebate system," echoed a third.

"I'll ask him."

Walking over to the chair, he said politely:

"Beg your pardon, sir, but to settle an argument, would you kindly tell us what mighty question you are studying over?"

The multi-millionaire turned his lathered face around and smiled. "I was just studying two flies doing handspins on the ceiling," he chuckled, and the trio of guessers looked so sheepish they failed to hear "Next" when it was called to them.

BABY'S ITCHING HUMOR.

Nothing Would Help Him—Mother Almost in Despair—Owes Quick Cure to Cuticura.

"Several months ago, my little boy began to break out with itching sores. I doctored him, but as soon as I got them healed up in one place they would break out in another. I was almost in despair. I could not get anything that would help him. Then I began to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and after using them three times, the sores commenced to heal. He is now well, and not a scar is left on his body. They have never returned nor left him with bad blood, as one would think. Cuticura Remedies are the best I have ever tried, and I shall highly recommend them to any one who is suffering likewise. Mrs. William Geeding, 102 Washington St., Attica, Ind., July 22, 1907."

PAT'S MIND WAS LOGICAL.

Quick to See One Strong Point as to Victim's Identity.

Previously to entering the railroad yards an able-bodied loafer picked up a small, glittering object from the sidewalk and, without examining it very closely, pinned it to his coat, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Three minutes later he collided with a slowly moving freight train, was hurled against a post and picked up insensibly. The train dispatcher, notified by telephone, called up Patrick Doyle, the yardmaster's assistant, and said: "You'd better search his pockets, Doyle. Find out who he is, notify his friends and report to me."

A few moments later the report came: "There's not a line of writing on him," said Patrick, "but we've identified him by the badge on his coat. He is a Lady Maccabee."

HOW TO TEST LINSEED OIL.

There is nothing that will make paint go wrong on the house more quickly than poor oil. It is as bad in its way as adulterations in the white lead. Petroleum oil cheapeners may be detected by placing a drop of the oil on a black painted surface. If one sees the characteristic iridescence or play of colors which kerosene exhibits, it is evidence of adulteration. Corn and fish oil can be detected by the smell.

Adulteration in white lead can best be discovered by the use of a blow-pipe, which National Lead Company will send with instructions free to anyone interested in paint. Address, National Lead Company, Woodbridge Building, New York.

Where He Drew the Line.

A famous English barrister was upon one occasion called upon to defend a cook tried for murder, being accused of having poisoned his master. The barrister, after a most able and brilliant defense of the culprit, secured an acquittal. The cook, anxious to show his gratitude, said: "Tell me, sir, whatever can I do for you to reward you?" The triumphant counsel answered: "My good man do anything you can, but for God's sake, don't ever cook for me."

Accounted For.

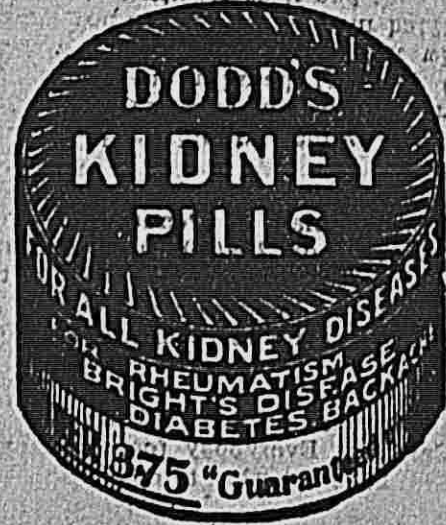

Naturally she turned to her husband for information.

"Why are so many of the police mentioned as plain-clothes men?" she asked.

"I suppose," he answered, "that they're like the rest of us. It takes all their pay to keep their wives from being plain-clothes women."—Philadelphia Ledger.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Secretary of the Treasury has transmitted to Congress an estimate of $13,000 for the payment of messengers of the respective States for carrying to Washington the votes of the electors for President and vice President in the coming elections. Twenty-five cents a mile, one way, is the basis of payment.

It looks as though that active little person with the maximum capacity for pestering other governments, President Castro of Venezuela, were about to receive the much-needed spandling which Senator Hale has so frankly declared was his due. Congress seems likely to give to President Roosevelt a free hand in the matter in which case he would "speak softly and—"

The recent tour of some of the largest cities of this country by the distinguished Japanese business men and women, has served to call attention in more ways than one, to the rapid progress Japan is making in competition along Occidental lines. It was significant, for instance, that each member of this party of sixty or more Japanese had his luggage marked in English letters.

Five-hundred thousand dollars will be appropriated at this session of Congress toward participation in the international exposition to be held at Tokyo in 1912, if the House of Representatives concurs in a report recently made by the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions. The Senate has acted already. The committee recommends, also, that a subsequent appropriation be made, not to exceed $500,000.

The lavish entertainments of rich American diplomats who have taken this means to establish social standing abroad, have been severely condemned by Congress. Mr. Longworth, President Roosevelt's son-in-law, declared that Emperor William had based his objections to Dr. David Jayne Hill as Ambassador to his court solely on account of that gentleman's lack of fortune and the fear that he would not be able to maintain an establishment equaling that of the present American diplomatic representative. Of course the aim of all the speakers has been to show that all these difficulties and embarrassments could be avoided if Congress would provide residence for his diplomatic representatives and compel them, by law, to occupy these houses during their term of official service.

Let us hope that the matter of the site for the Grant monument has been finally settled by the letter to one of the members of the Grant Memorial Commission from General Frederick D. Grant, who says, among other things: "The location in the Botanic Garden,—is the one most beautiful and most appropriate for the memorial of my dear father, and the placing of the monument on that site would tend more toward beautifying the City of Washington than locating the monument on any other site within the District of Columbia.—I beg—that you will use your valuable influence to have father's monument placed in the Botanic Garden and to prevent any change being made in the site which has been decided upon, as I am most anxious about this matter."

To have perfect health we must have perfect digestion, and it is very important not to permit of any delay the moment the stomach feels out of order. Take something at once that you know will promptly and unfailingly assist digestion. There is nothing better than Kodol for dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas and nervous headache. Kodol is a natural digestant, and will digest what you eat. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Superstitious Mexicans.

Superstition reigns supreme among the Mexicans. They never build a fire without making the sign of the cross in front of the oven. A child slow to talk is fed on boiled swallows, and colored glass beads, ground fine, are given for paralysis. The entire religion of the Mexican is full of suffering.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, is quickly changed to feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, rundown nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftentimes weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by J. H. Swan.

How Sawfish Uses Its Saw.

More energetic than any other sharks are the sawfish, whose snouts are prolonged into a broad blade of cartilage, which is horizontal when the fish is swimming in a normal position and has both its edges set with slightly curved teeth about an inch apart. The end of this formidable looking weapon is blunt and comparatively soft, so that it is quite incapable of the feats popularly attributed to it of piercing whales' bodies, ships' timbers, etc. It attacks other fish by a swift lateral thrust of the saw beneath them. Then it feeds upon the soft entrails, which are apparently the only food it can eat from the peculiar shape of its mouth. It has an enormous number of small teeth, sometimes as many as 50 rows in one individual, but they are evidently unfit for the rough duties required of their teeth by the garbage-eating members of the family.—Fish Lore.

How to Resist Colds.

Medical science is now nearly unanimous in its belief that colds are acquired by infection, just like measles or scarlet fever. They run through schools and factories and families.
Folk who lead outdoor lives and dwell in well ventilated houses are least susceptible to them if they do not under-feed or overindulge in alcohol and if they do not pile on so much clothing that the splendid armor of the human skin is pampered and weakened.
Plenty of cold bathing and exercise, light underwear, free use of water inside and outside of the body and sleeping with wide-open windows will help them to resist the infection.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.
It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.
The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.
If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.
Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.
It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.
If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

Sensational Suit Sale

One of the leading manufacturers of women's fine tailored suits sold us his sample line at ¼ off. They are not the garments that drummers carry from town to town but the samples that are shown to the merchants who call at their New York salesroom. Therefore, they are in absolutely perfect condition and much better than the regular output, as samples are always given considerably more attention in the tailoring and selecting of materials.

The garments are made in the modified Prince Chap, butterfly, vestee and cutaway styles. The materials include fine chiffon panama, ponaza cloth and serge, in plain colors and shadow stripes, also herring bone striped suiting. The workmanship is the highest character, as this concern employs only the most skilled tailors. Of course the prices are the most wonderful of all, when you take into consideration the character of the garments. The following quotations show the

Women's Spring Millinery

and our facilities for making up special orders—creations according to your particular ideas—cannot be equalled. In connection with style satisfaction, is the fact that we price our hats

STAND FOR DRIED FLOWERS.

Ornament Easily Made from a Tube of Cardboard.

A very effective stand for flowers that do not require water may be made from a tube of cardboard, the size of which must be regulated by the flowers it is intended to hold. The ends of the card must be sewn together, then the outside covered with a pretty piece of floral brocade. For the base a circle of card, standing out two inches wider each way, is covered with velvet or silk, ornamented with gold braid, or cord put on in waves. The tube must be fixed on the stand by sewing, or by a few drops of mullage. Everlasting flowers, cape gooseberries, berries and grasses, prettily arranged, may be then placed in the tube.

BUY STRIPES WITH DISCRETION.

Present Style Not Adapted for Woman of Small Means.

One must buy stripes with discretion. This is only another way of saying that, attractive as the new pronouncedly striped fabrics are, there is nothing that looks so distinctly out of it when this vogue is really over, and they are, therefore, not a fashion for the woman whose limited finances compel her to turn and twist her gowns until every thread of them is worn out.

Last summer Paris was beginning to go wild over stripes, which means that by next season some other vogue will be enjoying that fickle city's approval. And though one doesn't do just as Paris does, one follows after sooner or later, with modifications. So that bizarre and decided striped effects are to be bought with discretion by the feminine of but one fine frock. One of the best ways to make up a black and white striped cotton-smartest of all striped combinations—is in a jumper dress, with a jaunty little coat to match. Blue and white and brown and white will also make admirable little three-piece costumes of this nature.

Lace and Outline.

Most of the dresses at this moment are relieved with lace, some blouses being entirely made of lace, while lace as yokes and trimmings, vests and the like, on elaborate bodices, is prominent, lace sleeves come often to the wrist.

The colors of the latest cloth dresses are so delicate and a new purple is perhaps one of the best worn shades of the year. The empire effect at the back is altogether charming. The empire coat is delightful, with its straight front faced with velvet worn over a broadened waistcoat, a pretty lace hunting stock and jabot finishing the throat. We are preferring light shades to white and cream this year, and lace accords well with these. Brunettes are favoring a new yellow tone, trimmed with ceru lace; this in fine cloth is well worn for reception dresses.

Whatever the trimming or the cut the one aim of the best dressmakers is to keep the outline clear.

Jumper Frocks.

Jumper frocks of pongee and linen in either stripes or checks are delightfully trim and practical. One French model has large buttons of light brown pongee in one of the onlon shades embroidered lightly with black and white, while lines of the brown appear next the lingerie gumpie and on the collar and cuffs. Sharp contrasts are effective here and there, but as a rule they are used sparingly by the best dressmakers.

Ribbon Necklets.

A pretty novelty of the season is the narrow ribbon necklet, which is worn equally with high, transparent bodices and with décolleté effects. It consists of a stiff half-inch ribbon that passes round the neck and crosses in front through a slide of silver or gold, set with jewels, real or artificial. The ribbon ends are finished with caps of metal topped by tiny metal tassels or other fancy "drops."—Harper's Bazar.

Defect in Human Face. In three faces out of five the eyes are out of alignment.

Worth Remembering. The man who asks to be allowed to explain is self-condemned.—Life.

Test of the Housekeeper.
Some one fond of generalizing has said that the conditions of the windows reveal the character of the housekeeper. A small quantity of water with alcohol in it is recommended as the best medium for window cleaning, with a newspaper rub afterward. A dry clean for a window spread over it, and there are numerous substances sold for the purpose that make it possible to keep the windows so clean that even an indifferent housekeeper may get the credit of being a better one by virtue of her clean windows.

Boylshness.
The small boy that doesn't try to make more noise than some other small boy is not in good health and should receive medical attention.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris, Skippers, of Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Hoi for the Cutaway Coat.

All hail to the cutaway coat! Nothing is newer than this style of wrap at present, nor is there any other in view likely to prove a formidable rival. The latest models are cut into deep points at the lower edge, sometimes in just four, at back, front and sides, respectively, while others are bordered with deep points. It will be the easiest matter to transform a tight-fitting half or three-quarter old-fashioned coat into a smart up-to-date wrap by simply cutting the lower edge into points and then inserting a smart-looking waistcoat and adding cuffs of some pretty contrasting material. The cuffs should be cut star-shaped on outer edge.

Women and Diplomacy.

Almost all the celebrated women have gained their fame by diplomatic means. The famous women of Jewish history were all subtle in their methods—Rebecca, Jael and Herodias, to name but a few of them. What born diplomatists, too, were Catherine of Siena, the great saint, and Catherine de Medici, the great sinner. The list of them down the ages is unending. The royal road to fame as well as to peace would seem for women to be marked by the sign-posts of diplomacy.

SPUR FOR CONGRESS

PRESIDENT AGAIN ASKS PASSAGE OF SEVERAL LAWS.

SENDS SPECIAL MESSAGE

Chief Executive Urges Injunction and National Incorporation Legislation—Rape Girls Who Marry Foreign Noblemen.

Washington.—Conditions in both the senate and the house were such that the special message of the president, further outlining his views as to legislation, which was sent to congress Monday received but scant attention. The message arrived late in the day and the house was so tied up under its new rules that it could not officially receive the message, while the senate was in the midst of the consideration of the naval appropriation bill under the ten-minute rule when the document reached that body. Unlike the house, the senate permitted the formal presentation of the message, but by the time the naval bill had been disposed of the hour was so late and the attendance so small that no attempt was made to read the document.

The message in part: In my message to the congress of March 25, 1908, I outlined certain measures which I believe the majority of our countrymen desire to have enacted into law at this time. These measures do not represent by any means all that I would like to see done if I thought it possible, but they do represent what I believe can now be done if an earnest effort toward this end is made.

Asks Injunction Legislation.

First, as to the power of injunction and of punishment for contempt. In contempt cases, save where immediate action is imperative, the trial should be before another judge. As regards injunctions, some such legislation as that I have previously recommended should be enacted. They are blind who fail to realize the extreme bitterness caused among large bodies of worthy citizens by the use that has been repeatedly made of the power of injunction in labor disputes. Those in whose judgment we have most right to trust are of the opinion that while much of the complaint against the use of the injunction is unwarranted, yet that it is unquestionably true that in a number of cases this power has been used to the grave injury of the rights of laboring men. I ask that it be used in some such way as that I already pointed out in my previous messages, for the very reason that I do not wish to see an embittered effort made to destroy it. It is unwise stubbornly to refuse to provide against repetition of the abuses which have used the present unrest. In a democracy like ours it is idle to expect alike to thwart the determination of the great body of our citizens. It is to be often the highest of a court, a legislature, or an executive, to resist and defy a just popular passion; and most certainly a public servant, whatever may be his consequences to himself, should follow what he thinks wrong.

Declines Overuse of Injunction.

But in a question which is emphatically one of public policy, the policy which the public demands is sure in the end to be adopted; and a persistent refusal to grant to a large portion of our people what is right is only too apt in the end to result in causing such irritation that when the right is obtained it is obtained in the course of a movement so ill considered and violent as to be accompanied by much that is wrong. The process of injunction in labor disputes, as well as where state laws are involved, should be used sparingly, and only when there is the clearest necessity for it; but it is one so necessary to the efficient performance of duty by the court on behalf of the nation that it is in the highest degree to be regretted that it should be liable to reckless use; for this reckless use tends to make honest men desire so to hamper its execution as to destroy its usefulness.

Would Strengthen Trust Law.

The strengthening of the anti-trust law is demanded upon both moral and economic grounds. Our purpose in strengthening it is to secure more effective control of the national government over the business use of the vast masses of individual, and especially of corporate, wealth, which at the present time monopolize most of the interstate business of the country; and to believe the control can best be exercised by preventing the growth of abuses, rather than merely by trying to destroy them when they have already grown. In the highest sense of the word this movement for thorough control of the business use of this great wealth is conservative. We are trying to steer a safe middle course, which alone can save us from a plutocratic class government on the one hand or a socialistic class government on the other, either of which would be fraught with disaster to our free institutions, state and national. We are trying to avoid alike the evils which would flow from government ownership of the public utilities by which interstate commerce is chiefly carried on, and the evils which flow from the riot and chaos of unrestricted individualism. There is grave danger to our free institutions in the corrupting influence exercised by great wealth suddenly concentrated in the hands of the few. We should in some manner try to remedy this danger, in spite of the sullen opposition of these few very powerful men, and with the full purpose to protect them in all their rights at the very time that we require them to deal rightfully with others.

Need National Incorporation.

No judicial tribunal has the knowledge or experience to determine in the first place whether a given combination is advisable or necessary in the interest of the public. Some body, whether a commission, or a bureau under the department of commerce and labor, should be given this power. My personal belief is that ultimately we shall have to adopt a national incorporation law, though I am well aware that this may be impossible at present. Over the actions of the executive body in which the power is placed the courts should possess merely a power of review analogous to that obtaining in connection with the work of the interstate commerce commission at present. To confer this power would not be a leap in the dark; it would merely be to carry still further the theory of effective governmental control of corporations which was responsible for the creation of the interstate commerce commission and for the enlargement of its powers, and for the creation of the bureau of corporations.

Labor Unions Exempted.

So far as labor is engaged in production only, its claims to be exempted from the anti-trust law are sound. This would substantially cover the right of laborers to combine, to strike peaceably, and to enter into trade agreements with the employers. But when labor undertakes in a wrongful manner to prevent the distribution and sale of the products of labor, as by certain forms of the boycott, it has left the field of production, and its action may plainly be in restraint of interstate trade, and must necessarily be subject to inquiry, exactly as in the case of any other combination for the same purpose, so as to determine whether such action is contrary to sound public policy. The heartiest encouragement should be given to the wage-workers to form labor unions and to enter into agreements with their employers; and their right to strike, so long as they act peaceably, must be preserved. But we should sanction neither a boycott nor a blacklist which would be illegal at common law.

The measures I advocate are in the interest both of decent corporations and of law-abiding labor unions. They are, moreover, preeminently in the interest of the public, for in my judgment the American people have definitely made up their minds that the days of the reign of the great law-defying and law-evading corporations are over, and that from this time on the mighty organizations of capital necessary for the transaction of business under modern conditions, while encouraged so long as they act honestly and in the interest of the general public, are to be subjected to careful supervision and regulation of a kind so effective as to insure their acting in the interest of the people as a whole.

Hits Titled American Women.

Among the many kinds of evil, social, industrial and political, which it is our duty as a nation sternly to combat, there is none at the same time more base and more dangerous than the greed which treats the plain and simple rules of honesty with cynical contempt if they interfere with making a profit; and as a nation we cannot be held guiltless if we condone such action. The man who preaches hatred of wealth honestly acquired, who inculcates envy and jealousy and slanderous ill will toward those of his fellows who by thrift, energy and industry have become men of means, is a menace to the community. But his counterpart in evil is to be found in that particular kind of multimillionaire who is almost the least enviable, and is certainly one of the least admirable, of all our citizens; a man of whom it has been well said that his face has grown hard and cruel while his body has grown soft; whose son is a fool and his daughter a foreign princess; whose nominal pleasures are at best those of tasteless and extravagant luxury, and whose real delight, whose real life work, is the accumulation and use of power in its most sordid and least elevating form. In the chaos of an absolutely unrestricted commercial individualism under modern conditions, this is a type that becomes prominent as inevitably as the marauder baron became prominent in the physical chaos of the dark ages. We are striving for legislation to minimize the abuses which give this type its flourishing prominence.

NEWS OF ILLINOIS

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM ALL OVER THE STATE.

CHILDRENS' HOME OPENS

Southern Illinois Counties Are Benefited by New Establishment at Du Quoin—Boys and Girls Are Given Instruction.

Du Quoin.—Southern Illinois has formally entered the business of "making over" children. The Du Quoin receiving home of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society was opened and it is here that this new work is being carried on. The new institution takes homeless boys and girls from the 28 southernmost counties and finds for them decent families in which they may be brought up. While they are at the receiving home the "making over" process is carried on, and experience has shown that but a single month's training can so improve the appearance, manners, habits and character of a child that any American household will be willing to receive it. The Du Quoin home is a model building, plans for which were exhibited at the St. Louis fair, receiving commendation from both American and European sociologists. It stands at the center of a five-acre tract on the east side of the city donated by S. B. Eaton of this place. The building is of brick in the colonial style of architecture and has beds for 24 children. Like the three other receiving stations of the society throughout the state it is conducted on home lines, with none of the rules and regulations of the old-time orphan asylum.

FINDS A $2,500 PEARL.

Mussel Hunter at Beardstown Makes Biggest Find Yet Taken.

Beardstown.—The largest pearl yet taken from the Illinois river in this field of operation was found the other afternoon by one of Everett Brothers, mussel hunters who have been at work in this city since the season opened four weeks ago. The pearl weighs 52½ grains and is valued at from $2,500 to $2,700 by the owners. One of the brothers recently made a find which he sold for $720.

May Have Street Cars.

Taylorville.—An electric railroad for Taylorville is assured. The city council granted to the Taylorville Railway, Heat, Light and Power company a franchise to build an electric road three miles long in this city and to Hewittville and the coal shaft, and then south to a piece of ground to be beautified for a city park.

Deneen Talks to Home Folks.

Granite City.—Street parades, fireworks and enthusiasm welcomed Gov. Deneen to Madison county, his birthplace. Assembly hall, where the governor spoke, was crowded to the doors, and it is estimated that over 3,000 persons were present. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Republican club.

Engineer Drowned in Flood.

Alton.—A fast freight train on the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis road dashed into a water-filled cut from which a storm flood had washed away the tracks 15 miles above here, and the engine and 11 cars turned over. Engineer John F. Walsh of Springfield was imprisoned in his cab and drowned.

Black Hand Panic in a School.

Chicago.—Twelve hundred pupils of the Edward Jenner public school fled panic-stricken to the streets when a report spread through the building that three members of the "Black Hand" society had placed a nitroglycerin bomb in the basement, which was timed to go off.

Will Supply Suburban Pupils.

Mt. Pulaski.—Rev. M. M. Show, who makes his home in this city, has been called to preach for the Christian churches at Cornland and Lake Fork. He will preach in Cornland the first and third Sundays of each month, and Lake Fork the second and fourth Sundays.

Springfield.—Ruth Bates, aged 15 years, accidentally shot and killed her sister, Josephine, aged 11 years, with a revolver at their home in Verdun.

Illinois Photographers to Meet.

Joliet.—The tenth annual convention of the Photographers' association of the state of Illinois will be held in Joliet May 5-7.

Papa.—Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Connor celebrated the thirty-first anniversary of their marriage at their home.

Alumni Elect Officers.

Greenfield.—The high school alumni held a meeting and elected the following officers: President, Edward Culver; vice-president, Mrs. V. H. Haven; secretary, Mrs. S. D. McPherson; treasurer, C. Shane.

SENATE FIRST VOTES AGAINST FOUR NEW BATTLESHIPS.

DEBATE HAS BEEN WARM

Allison Reveals Understanding Among Leaders That Two Big Warships Shall Be Authorized Each Year.

Washington.—By an overwhelming vote, President Roosevelt's four battleship program failed in the senate Monday, just as it did in the house. The amendment for four battleships was introduced by Senator Plies, and the fight for its adoption was led by Senator Beveridge.

Twenty-three votes were cast for the increased program, the number largely being made up of recently elected senators. Fifty senators voted to support the house and the recommendation of the senate naval committee in favor of building only two battleships.

The debate on the battleship amendment lasted three days, to the exclusion of all other matters. It was begun by Senator Beveridge with an eloquent appeal for the support of the president and a suggestion that the larger navy might be needed for war. Members of the committee upbraided the Indiana senator for this veiled hint of war with another country, and sought to make him admit that he meant Japan. At times the discussion came near becoming acrimonious, especially sharp exchanges occurring between Senators Aldrich and Beveridge.

It was developed by Senator Allison during the debate that there is a well-defined understanding among the senate leaders for the authorization of two battleships each year, until the American navy is regarded as sufficient to meet any demands that may be made upon it.

As finally passed, the bill carries appropriations aggregating $123,116,659, and provides for the construction of two battleships and two colliers, and the purchase of three additional colliers, the construction of submarines and other necessary craft, and increases the pay of officers and enlisted men, as well as increasing both the pay and strength of the marine corps.

WOMAN SLAIN WITH AX.

Brutal Murder in Brownville, N. Y.—

Two Arrests Made.

Watertown, N. Y.—What is apparently a most brutal murder was discovered late Monday in the manufacturing village of Brownville, four miles west of this city. The victim was Mrs. Sarah Brennan, wife of Patrick Brennan, a paper maker, and a highly respected resident of the little place.

The body of Mrs. Brennan, frightfully hacked with an ax and the skull crushed in, was found tightly packed in a large trunk at her home. Near the trunk a bloody ax was found. The police claim to have already solved the mystery of the woman's death through a confession which, it is alleged, they have obtained.

According to the police, the murder was done in a hotel formerly known as the Barton house, which is located near the Brennan home. The motive the officers allege was robbery.

Pending further inquiry into the case, the police have taken into custody James Farmer and his wife, who are neighbors of the Brennans.

IMPORTANT RULING IN IOWA.

Attorney General Says Corporations Cannot Retail Liquor.

Des Moines, Ia.—In passing on the application of the Co-operative Company of Sioux City for a state permit to issue stock, Attorney General Byers Monday ruled that such a permit should not be granted because the proposed corporation expected to engage in the retailing of intoxicating liquors. He declared that it is clear from the mult laws of the state the legislature never intended that a corporation should engage in the retail sale of intoxicating liquors, but that the laws contemplate that the business shall be confined to individuals solely, so that there may be individual, not corporate, responsibility under the law.

The decision is one of the most important in years and will precipitate much litigation.

Choate Is for Taft.

New York.—Joseph H. Choate Monday announced his acceptance of the vice-presidency of the Taft organization of the state of New York. Mr. Choate says he regards the nomination and election of Mr. Taft as of the utmost public importance.

HAD CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

Congressman Meekison Gives Praise To Pe-ru-na For His Relief From Catarrh.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON COMMENDS PE-RU-NA.

"I have used several bottles of Peru-na and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison.

OTHER REMARKABLE CURES.

Mr. Jacob L. Davis, Galena, Stone county, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for thirty-seven years, and after taking twelve bottles of your Peru-na I am cured." Mr. C. N. Peterson, 132 South Main St., Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I cannot tell you how much good Peru-na has done me. Constant confinement in my store began to tell on my health, and I felt that I was gradually breaking down. I tried several remedies, but obtained no permanent relief until I took Peru-na. I felt better immediately, and five bottles restored me to complete health."

A SINCERE RECOMMENDATION.

Mr. D. C. Prosser, Bravo, Allegan Co., Mich., writes: "Two years ago I was badly afflicted with catarrh of the stomach. I had had a run of typhoid fever, was very depleted. I could find nothing I could eat without causing distress and sour stomach. Finally I came to the conclusion that I had catarrh of the stomach and seeing Peru-na advertised, began to take it. It helped me soon, and after taking three or four bottles I was entirely cured of stomach trouble, and can now eat anything."

Perversion of Type.

The Sunday school teacher was entertaining her class with what she had fondly planned to be a "social evening." To her disappointment she found that all spontaneity had been left at home with the boys' everyday clothes, and conversation dragged hopelessly until her bull terrier came into the room. He sniffed about from one shy hand of welcome to another, when suddenly a boyish voice, gruff with embarrassment, burst forth: "I had a bull pup like that once, but he grew up into a bloodhound."

Responsive.

The lecturer had announced that among the Athabascans, on the Koskowiine river, the females were supreme.

"Pardon me for the interruption," said a resolute looking spinster, "but I must go."

"Are you ill?" asked the speaker, with proper concern.

"Never better," responded the departing, "but I'm hitting the trail for the Koskowiine."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ALL FAIR IN LOVE AND WAR.

Proof That the Modern Maiden Is Not Easily "Stumped."

It was his first dinner at her house, mother was away, and it was the maid's day out. The girl sat down and considered. She didn't know a blue bean about cooking.

But dear, dear, Ron! wasn't built in a day and one couldn't acquire the gentle art of cooking in an afternoon. So the old rule of "When in doubt use the telephone," was applied, and little girl smiled to herself and set the table its prettiest.

The cakes, salad and ices for that dinner were perfect and the roast and vegetables were delicious. He looked elated and she maintained a discreet air. Only the baskets and boxes in the kitchen told the story. Some were from one of the best caterers in town, the others, the ones that the roast and vegetables had come in, were from a delicatessen shop that makes a specialty of sending out dinners to order. So, of course, he liked the dinner, and the demure little maid only puckered up her brow and said to herself, "I wonder if I am an old fraud."

MATTER FOR THE SCIENTISTS.

Theory as to Whether We Live Inside or Outside Earth.

There are a number of believers in the theory that we are living inside the earth instead of outside. These unpleasant people want us to admit that we are surrounded by a shell like a huge nut. Just what good it will do us to admit this isn't clear. About the only benefit to be derived from the information, as far as we can see at present is the possibility that the balloonists may prepare themselves for a hard bump against the inner side of the shell if they ever go up too high.

We are also told that the acceptance of this kernel in the nut theory will explain many things—none of which we remember.

It will also upset a great many things with which we are familiar and which, on the whole, we like pretty well.

This leads us to remark that we prefer to believe we are outside. At the same time if the inside facts are convincing we are open to conviction.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup—the cough syrup that tastes nearly as good as maple sugar and which children like to take so well. Unlike nearly all other cough remedies, it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts promptly yet gently on the bowels, through which the cold is forced out of the system, and at the same time it allays inflammation. Always use Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Sold by J. H. Swan.

POOR FRITZ MADE A MARTYR.

German Schoolboy Victim of Father's Misunderstanding.

The Katholische Schul-Zeitung of Berlin tells this story to justify its endorsement of the Imperial order against the use of foreign words: "At one of the high schools the scholars were ordered to appear before a committee of ophthalmologists for examination, with a view to correcting defects in vision and arresting the progress of eye troubles. One scholar received from the head master a note for his father which read: 'To-day's examination showed that your son Fritz is predisposed to myopia. Something must be done with him.' Next morning Fritz appeared with this note for the head master: 'As soon as I read your note of yesterday, for which I thank you, I gave Fritz a sound thrashing, which, I hope, will do him good. If he ever does the same thing again let me know.' The school authorities have been instructed to use 'shortsighted' instead of 'myopia,' hereafter."
